

Sexually Active? Want To Keep Track? Now You Can!

To assist in creating a safer online dating environment and to help combat the spread of sexually transmitted diseases, a new free service has been created which can make people more aware of their sexual lifestyle by privately keeping track of their sexual history without fear of prying eyes.

New York, NY (PRWEB) November 4, 2005 -- Believe it or not - one out of three people, both male and female, have some kind of "sex log." The problem with that is that they do not have a sufficient place to keep it from prying eyes - or they don't keep it up to date because it is too hard to maintain.

There is a new "tool" currently available called MyBlackBook (<http://www.myblackbook.org>), released by Resorb Networks, Inc. that provides people with a place to store their sexual history, partners and experiences in a safe, secure and confidential place. MyBlackBook also allows a member to manage, update and lookup their entries in an easy way – giving them the opportunity and ability to assess their sexual behavior and activity and to make changes in their life.

Since the beginning of online dating, "online hookups" have become more prevalent – pushing the need for such a service to be born. Having the ability to record your sexual behavior and history at your fingertips has its advantages.

The service being completely free to use, has features such as charts, graphs, reports and more – all in real time. Due to the nature of the service's use, all members must be at least 18 years of age or older.

All transmissions through MyBlackBook are aided by a 128-Bit SSL Secure Server, to protect the privacy and the information passed from the user to the server. The only person who has access and the ability to view your account is you.

Not only is MyBlackBook perfect for college students, but also for anyone else that is currently sexually active, or thinking about becoming sexually active.

From the moment you begin to use MyBlackBook, it will become a habit to use it consistently – giving you the upper hand in continuing your online dating experiences and encounters.

With the hope that this new service will spark a trend in getting people to be more aware of their sexual behavior – possibly reducing the spread of sexually transmitted diseases, and creating a safer online dating environment.

Resorb Networks, Inc. (<http://www.resorb.net>) is a small online company which creates radical and never before seen applications for the web.
